Curriculum and Special Needs Instruction

Equity provides a highly personalized, college preparatory education following a rigorous, honorslevel U.S. curriculum designed for students actively pursuing entrance into colleges and universities where English is the primary language of instruction. Beginning in the elementary years, students are met with a challenging curriculum designed to help stimulate a love of learning. During these formative years, students are taught study skills and the value inherent in hard work and dedication through a combination of project based and blended learning. This is done in a safe and secure environment where students are encouraged to learn from achievements and mistakes in order to grow intellectually and emotionally.

By the middle school years, Equity students have generally mastered organizational and study skills needed to ensure academic success in high school. The curriculum at the high school level is considered an honors level curriculum in all subject matter with the exception of beginner-level Spanish and French. In the $11^{\text {th }}$ and $12^{\text {th }}$ grade years, some core classes have a curriculum modeled after college freshman level classes. Students who are more advanced are further encouraged to take online courses (either high school level or AP) for credit.

In all grade levels, Equity is equipped to handle mild to moderate levels of LD students. Any differentiated instruction is handled within the classroom and under supervision. Struggling students are worked with by involving additional resources and teaching, in-school tutoring, and parental involvement. Where needed, additional help in the form of counseling, therapy, or organizational skill development may be employed. Students who are remedial in English are required to enroll in EFL and/or TOEFL class in lieu of Spanish or French. Any student unable to maintain an overall average of $85 \%$ for two consecutive quarters may result in the student not being invited to return to Equity for the following school year.

Extracurricular Activities

Destination Imagination (DI): Upper school students are invited to participate in this 4 months long competition. Each team is presented with an imagine challenge that draws on their ability to solve problems collaboratively. Student teams compete against other schools in Guatemala

Basketball: Male and female teams are assembled by middle and high school students to compete in friendly exhibition games throughout the year.

Volunteer Tutoring: Responsible juniors and seniors are offered the opportunity to provide homework tutoring for elementary grade children who need additional help getting their homework done after school.

STUCO (Student Council): EAS maintains a more than decade long tradition of organizing a highly empowered and influential student council. Class representatives from $7^{\text {th }}$ through $12^{\text {th }}$ grade are popularly elected and are tasked with fulfilling their core missions.

Debate: Two different debating models are practiced at EAS: The Parli-debate American model for intramural Parliamentary Debate, and the Karl Popper debate format to compete with other schools in English and Spanish.

End-of-the-Year Service Project: Using funds raised by the student council and donations from the elementary school, all upper school students invest the final week of the school year to either building school furniture or creating didactic material based on Guatemala's national curriculum. All furniture and didactic material is donated to a Guatemalan national school with minimal resources.

VIP (Voices In Print): Our school wide literary magazine showcases various genres from student, staff, and parent authors. Student editors edit content and layout.

The Torch: Our high school newspaper, run by students, is a quarterly news publication and a yearlong extracurricular activity.
